The programme for the evening was made up of the second and third acts of Flotow's 'Martha' and the second act of Lecocq's comic opera 'Manola,' Mr Harding was unfortunately not in good voice, not having recovered from a bad cold, and the selections from Flotow's masterpiece were consequently much less enjoyable than they would otherwise have been. The popular tenor struggled bravely to do justice to the music of the part of Lionel, and under the circumstances his performance was remarkably goo!. Miss Plaisted as the heroine sang and acted with all her usual charm and was rewarded with the enthusiactic applause to which she is so well accustomed. Much praise is due to Miss Rose Tamras for her really excellent performance as Nancy. In respect to both singing and soting it was one of the best appearances she has made in Hongkong.
